

A wide-angle photograph of a lush green park. In the foreground, several people are engaged in leisure activities: a group of three people stands on the left, while others are riding bicycles on the right. The middle ground is filled with more people sitting on the grass, some under large, leafy trees. The background is dominated by a dense canopy of tall trees, creating a sense of a secluded, natural space. The overall atmosphere is bright and cheerful, suggesting a pleasant day outdoors.
